THE PAINTINGS OF CHARLES BURCHFIELD will be the subject of John I. H. Baur when he lectures at The Cleveland Museum of Art on Friday January 18 at 8:15 p.m. This talk is given in connection with the Museum's current exhibition of Burchfield's work.

Baur is Curator of the Whitney Museum which organized the Burchfield show. Before his present position began, he was Curator of Painting and Sculpture at the Brooklyn Museum. Since his graduation from Yale University he has authored numerous publications in the field of American art.

In his talk, which is open free to the public, he will give special attention to the relationship of Burchfield's work to his aims and character.
